

Doing nothing means being a loser,
doing nothing means to frustrate everything...
After twenty years of silence, our version is more important...
We're back, devotion in the black flame is more alive than ever

We are talking to you Christians
God dropped the Church out, he abandoned all of you to your sad, fucking fate for so long

You've been absorbed by a system, by a system that steals money and souls in the name of God
After twenty years we wish to express what we think, the black flame never left us and we'll never ever leave her...

You are losers, poor Christians...
You trust what your Church pretends to believe, you will die and your soul will wander into...

...nothingness!

After twenty years of silence we are back for the black flame's glory, which is an entity that will never abandon us!

The day will come when we will laugh at you from our position... and we will pee on your wild and perverse superstition...

You are bound to perish the falsity of a hypocritical Church suppress your faith or you will rot for eternity,

Amen

After Twenty Years of Silence

Lyrics by Lop Moor